Dementia research takes a step forward in Norfolk and Suffolk

Your help can make a difference

“Most interesting - liked to be centre of interest! Felt useful instead of a burden”

Research participant

The Dementias and Neurodegenerative Diseases Research Network covering Norfolk and Suffolk (DeNDRoN East Anglia) is hosted by Norfolk and Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust. The network supports local clinicians in the delivery of large or smaller scale dementia and neurodegenerative disease research in our region.

We support a range of clinical trials and studies in the NHS; observational studies, new treatments or approaches to care and support for people with dementia and their caregivers.

But we need your help!

Every Clinical Research Study is different. Every study comes with detailed information about the risks and benefits of participation. It is important that you read these carefully to ensure that the study is right for you. If you decide to withdraw from the research study at anytime this will not effect your usual care and treatment.

How you can help

Taking part in a clinical research study can be a rewarding experience. Your doctor or nurse might ask you to take part in a clinical research study as part of your care, but we are also looking for people with dementia and carers who would be happy to be contacted directly about possible participation in research studies.
