

Patient Identification Centre Pathway

Introduction

Prior to the Interact project, there was no systematic recruitment of Host Trust patients to Local Research Network portfolio studies running in sites outside the Host Trust. This issue was addressed by the development of a Patient Identification Centre (PIC) pathway. Although the PIC pathway was not fully operational when the project closed, the developmental work had taken place during the project timescale and has now been completed. The process is outlined below.

The process was developed in consultation with the host trust, and other key stakeholders from across the region, using best practice guidance from other parts of the South West and across England.
